Dear John, Steve,

The manufacturing costs associated with our Bonded block products have continued to rise for a sustained and extended period. These increases have not been isolated to chemical raw materials alone, with general power utilities such as heat, light & water, all of which are used within our process increasing.

The scale of these increases are such that we can no longer simply absorb these, continuing to offer price stability and therefore, regrettably, we must inform you of the need to apply a selling price increase.

Please find attached your price list detailing individual grades and their new prices. Please note, these new prices are effective from the date of delivery and not date of order.

As always your I will be available to discuss this in more detail should you wish.

Kind Regards

Danny Nunn
